FIGHT BEGINS TO SAVE SIR ROGER CASEMENT

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire]
LONDON, July 17.—A new chapter opened today in Sir Roger Casement's legal fight against being executed for high treason for his activities in the Dublin revolt.

Sir Roger's case reached the court of criminal appeal and, although the new proceedings hardly compared in point of public interest with the trial, privileged spectators began to take seats an hour before the court was called to order.

Sir Roger's counsel, immediately upon opening argument, emphasized the technical point that the law governing treason does not include any offense of adhering to the king's enemies outside of the realm.

Should the judges rule that Sir Roger's conviction on the charge of giving aid and comfort to England's enemies by stirring up the Irish rebellion was just, the Irishman must hang.

Sir Roger, one of the most brilliant men even in the King's service, whose work among the colonies brought him a title and the royal favor, recently was found guilty of high treason. His defense was that he was working in the interest of Ireland's sovereignty, but not against England.

Although a statement has been communicated from the American government through Ambassador Page informing the British government that much interest is taken in the disposition of Sir Roger's case, nothing more nearly approaching a formal appeal for clemency could with diplomatic propriety be vouchsafed. The judges may not announce their decision today.

Mr. Sullivan was still quoting authorities when the hearing was adjourned until tomorrow.

The Roger Casement of other days is described by one who for some time was his neighbor in Africa. He writes:

"At the time of the Boer war, Roger Casement was consul for southwest Africa and had his headquarters at Sion Paul de Loanda, the capital of Portuguese Angola. Among the few Englishmen there he was an outstanding figure and was known all up and down the coast. He was an ideal consul. He had a strong and a charming personality. Tall, lithe, and outstanding, with magnetic eyes and a pointed beard, full of tireless energy and generous enthusiasm, he was one of the Sir Richard Grenville's type. Usually gentle and suave he was capable of rage. He would boil with indignation at the wrongs of some poor serfdom whose tale of misery and suffering under the cruel system of indentured labor came to his attention. He fought for them and strove to relieve them wholeheartedly. All the world knows of his later work in the Belgian Congo and in Brazil. His early work in West Africa is less known, but it was equally great, perhaps greater, because it was done quietly and out of the limelight. It was true pioneer work. Public opinion had not then been aroused, and the existence of this form of slavery was to most people unknown.

"He had considerable experience of the west coast of Africa. Before joining the colonial service he was line pursuer on the Elder Dempster steamers. It was while employed by the Niger Coast Protectorate that he climbed the Cameroons mountain, a feat which he celebrated in an excellent sonnet written at the summit. It appeared in the "Spectator." It is typical of the man that he chose this method of expression. A sordid soul would have described the adventure in prose and have made money.

"He gained much insight into the native labor problem of West Africa on these voyages, a knowledge which he put to very good use in his consular work afterwards.

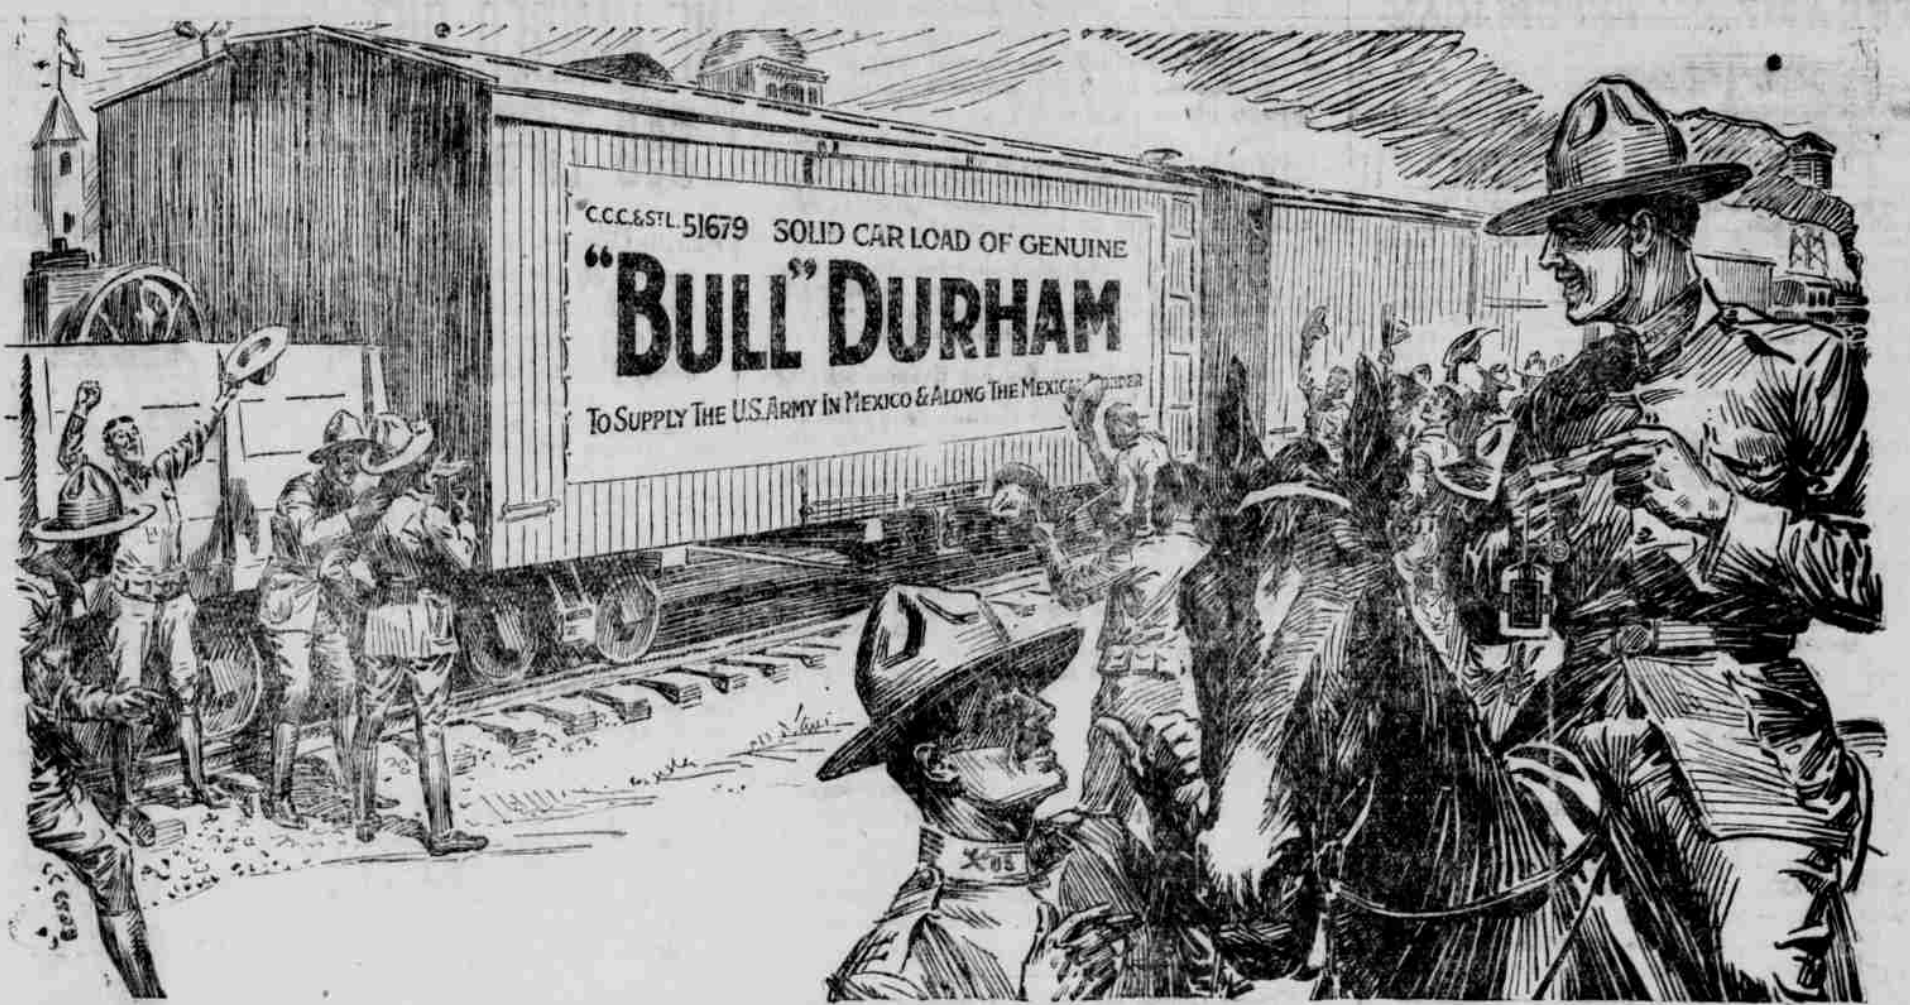

"Casement lived at Loanda in a small bungalow, his sole companion a large Irish sheep dog called Rags, and they were inseparable. The consul was quite unconventional. He would frequently go out for a stroll at sunrise with an old shooting jacket over his pajamas and Rags lurching at his heels, and return at sunset, tired out and nappy, having fared through the day upon a few bananas. He was much addicted to these lonely wanderings and was known to all the country round. The native children especially were attracted to him, sure that in his capacious pockets lurked bluebirds and small copper coins which were theirs for a grin.

"An excellent companion, witty, good humored, and virile, Casement was full of the joy of life. He had many eccentricities, but they were all harmless and many of them lovable. He had many penpals. No beggar appealed to him in vain. His influence was always for good. He was a keen athlete, a strong swimmer, and a good cricketer. He was widely and well read, an artist and a poet of no mean order. At that time much of his leisure was devoted to compiling a book of simple rhymes and delightful sketches for some children in Ireland and it was a rare privilege to watch this grow under his hand.

"Casement was a Home Ruler because he was an Irishman, and upon this subject he was fiercely eloquent. His usually soft voice would grow strong and deep and his eyes would flash or the rare occasions when he allowed himself to be drawn into a discussion upon the subject of his beloved Ireland.

"It has been stated that he had pro-Boer sympathies at that time. This is the reverse of the truth. No people who tolerated oppression in their dealings with native races had any sympathy from Roger Casement.

"He was at this time, a true, a loyal, and an honest gentleman. It is impossible to connect our Roger aged, Four Norfolk and Western bridges on Galax branch, one on Little Creek extension, Pepper bridge near Radford, and another bridge near Pearisburg were washed away. Damage in the Pearisburg district alone is estimated at a million dollars. The small town of Narrows is reported completely submerged.

Newport, Tenn., is partly inundated and many families have been forced from their homes. All railroads in eastern Tennessee suffered heavily.

Crop damage occurred along the Kanawha river in West Virginia and there also was considerable damage in that state due to washout and bridges carried away.

Flood Waters Recede
ASHEVILLE, July 17.—Flooded waters of the French Broad and Swannock rivers were rapidly receding tonight, but completion of definite reports received here showed a startling aggregate of damage. In these two valleys nine lives were lost, sixty residences washed away, 400 people made homeless, 1200 thrown out of employment, 25 industrial plants partially destroyed and an almost complete tie-up of railroad traffic effected. The property loss is estimated at $10,000,000.

Workers in cotton gins and lumber plants in Buncombe, Henderson and Madison counties are being cared for here, and it will be several days before any of the plants resume operations while others may have to be virtually rebuilt. Nearly $10,000 was secured here today for relief work among flood sufferers.

Crest Is Reached
CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 17.—The crest of the flood was reached here late today when a stage of 29.9 feet was registered in the Kanawha river. Considerable damage to coal properties was reported, the heaviest being the loss of 35 coal barges. A number of washouts were reported on the Norfolk and Western and the Virginia railroads. Wire communication with points in southern West Virginia still was crippled tonight.

Damage in Tennessee
KNOXVILLE, July 17.—As a result of the highest tide in East Tennessee rivers since 1902 property damage estimated at more than $2,000,000 has been done in this section of the state.

Train Is Marooned
ASHEVILLE, July 17.—The Carolina special, a Southern Railway passenger train which left Knoxville Sunday morning, is marooned by high waters four miles below Marshall with 263 passengers aboard. Relief was started out from Asheville tonight by automobile.

HEALTH CHIEF SAYS EPIDEMIC IS NOW CHECKED IN GOTHAM population and expressed the belief that the "high curve" of the epidemic had been passed. The statement included figures showing that the infant mortality rate last week, regarded as the high point of the epidemic, was 10 per cent lower than for the corresponding week last year.

Word from Washington is awaited by Dr. Charles E. Banks, in charge of the United States public health office here, before he inaugurates a program relative to interstate travel. More health officers from Washington also are expected to come here.

The board of health extended from one to two weeks the quarantine on families in which infantile paralysis patients have died or recovered. The department, it was said, had found that the period of incubation is longer than at first believed. Nine moving picture theaters in the epidemic stricken section of South Brooklyn which had been closed were allowed to resume business today.

IRISH BILL IS COMING UP SOON

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire]
LONDON, July 17.—Premier Asquith announced today that the Irish bill will be introduced in parliament before the adjournment for the autumn recess and repeated that the whole Irish question would be submitted to an imperial conference after the war.

It is understood that the bill will not be presented until next week and in the meantime the delay is allowing opposition to crystallize which threatens trouble and indicates that this measure is to have anything but a smooth passage.

An important meeting of a new party representing the Lansdowne views of the Lloyd George compromise was held in the house of commons today. Seventy-six members of the house of Lords and 98 members of the house of commons were planned. It was said that the party is daily growing larger. Resolutions were carried by acclamation declaring that the party "views with apprehension that the attempt to establish an Irish platform and executive so soon after the rebellion and during the war, and welcomes Lord Lansdowne's assurance that the government will take necessary steps to suppress treason and sedition in Ireland and uphold the supremacy of the law."

INSURANCE WITHOUT COST

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire]
NEW YORK, July 17.—Involving a total of more than $15,000,000, the Prudential Insurance Company today announced the institution of a system of insuring every one of its more than 16,000 employees without expense to the workers. This is said to be the largest single amount of life insurance ever covered by any company in the world. Every employee in this country and Canada comes under the plan. Officers and directors of the company, however, are not included. Employment of a year or less entitles them to $500 and from that the scale advances to $2,000 for those who have been 20 years or more in the company's service. No actual policies are to be issued. The risks are merely carried on the company's books and the company pledges itself to pay the insurance in case of death.

NO SUPPLIES TO TEUTONS

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire]
WASHINGTON, July 17.—Great Britain has again refused a plea of the American Red Cross for permission to make conditional shipments of Red Cross supplies to Germany and Austria. Foreign Secretary Grey in a note dated July 12 and made public here today reiterates that the allies' blockade against such shipments is in accord with the Geneva convention, declares there is no evidence that the supplies are needed in the Teutonic nations, and says Great Britain cannot entertain a suggestion that supplies be sent.

The commission's suggestion was by the Red Cross in a letter to Sir Edward Grey by former President Taft and transmitted by the state department. It was intended to meet the objection of the British government that withdrawal of the Red Cross hospital units from Germany had left no guarantee that supplies would not be put to military uses.

GULF STREAM SHIFTING

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire]
NEW YORK, July 17.—A new theory to explain the presence of the large schools of sharks along the North Atlantic seaboard was offered by Captain William Jensen of the United Fruit Steamship Calamitas, which arrived here today. He expressed the belief that the gulf stream has curved toward the coast and that tropical fish of every variety soon will abound in the waters adjacent to Long Island. Two hundred miles from New York Sunday night, Captain Jensen said, the temperature of the water was 74 degrees unusually high for that latitude.

FOUR CAUGHT IN CAVE-IN

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire]
JOPLIN, Mo., July 17.—A cave-in of a drift roof at the Babcock mine tonight imprisoned four men forty feet from the shaft, which was their only exit. It was believed by rescuing forces tonight that all four are dead. Tons of dirt must be removed before the men can be reached.
